

Even though the objects are not close to each other, you can notice that the focus for every object is the same. This is good when you want to show every object in the picture.