

This exercise helped me to pay attention to everything around me. I was focussing on the details of the small and big things, and I gather some pictures that may look like something else.