Taking portrait pictures defer from person to another. It changes because not everyone thinks the same as others. Portrait is taking pictures that have more meaning that they appear, it is the connection between the objects, lights and the place.